Central Virginia Homicide Investigation Agreement Signed, Appomattox Included

The second Regional Investigation Squad Agreement in effect in the nation was officially signed July 17 in the Central Virginia Planning District Commission (CVPDC) Conference Room with Andrew Miller, Attorney General for the Commonwealth of Virginia, present for the event.

Only Kansas City Metropolitan Area has a regional homicide investigation squad in operation. The Central Virginia agreement was brought about through the efforts of the Commission's Criminal Justice Advisory Committee.

In his remarks the Attorney General pointed out that "police and sheriff's departments have long been aware that effective law enforcement is not possible where jurisdictional boundaries are permitted to interfere."

"Your cooperative approach to reducing crime as a public menace in the four counties and two cities which make up this planning district is the first of its kind in the Commonwealth. I predict it won't be the last," Miller stated.

"What makes this whole idea important is that it is a means of strengthening local government, while at the same time protecting the integrity and individuality of each participating government," he continued.

The jurisdictions which approved the Regional Investigation Squad Agreement and signed the official document include the Counties of Amerhest, Appomattox, Bedford and Campbell, the Cities of Lynchburg and Bedford, and the Towns of Altavista Amherst, Appomattox and Brookneal.

According to Lynchburg Police Chief John K. Swan, Chairman of the Regional Investigation Squad, each law enforcement agency selected a certain number of officers to be members of the Squad and receive special training.

"We now have a nucleus of officers who have been trained in the latest techniques of homicide investigations. These men can work together to assist any member law enforcement agency in a homicide investigation," explained Swan.

"The Squad can be called together at the request of the chief law enforcement officer of any jurisdiction and since it is composed of officers from all the agencies, no department is left unmanned," Swan continued.

"With the existence of the Squad, Central Virginia law enforcement officers can work cooperatively to solve homicides as quickly and efficiently as possible," Swan concluded.

In addition to the agreement signed Wednesday, the Central Virginia Planning District also has a Reciprocal Agreement on Drug Abuse Control, a Civil Disorder Control Plan, and a Law Enforcement Manpower Pool Agreement in effect.

Football Physicals Slated

Both the varsity and junior varsity candidates should report to the middle school for examinations. Junior varsity candidates include boys in the eighth and ninth grades while the varsity includes 10th, 11th and 12th graders.

Robinson says the first practice session is scheduled for August 10th.

Times - Virginian Adds Staff Member

Will Cook, a former sports writer for The News in Lynchburg has joined the staff of the Times-Virginian as News Editor.

Cook is a 39-year-old veteran of the Korean and Viet Nam conflicts and retired from the U. S. Marine Corps in 1972 after 20 years of service.

A native of Morgantown, W. Va., Cook is married to the former Elaine Warnick. The couple have three children Maya 8, Jared 6 and Erie 4.

While in the Marine Corps the new editor played football for 12 years and was a member of the 1964 All-Marine and All Service volleyball teams which competed in the Pan-American games.

Cook is an avid fisherman who admits he often comes home empty handed, but loves to sit with a pole in his hand "whether the fish are biting or not."

Among his interests are spectator sports reading refinishing furniture and Civil War history.

The Cooks live in Lynchburg where they purchased 60-year-old house six years ago and are still in the process of renovating it, "I don't know if we will ever finish the house," Cook says "But it has been a lot of fun doing it ourselves and I suppose when it's finished it will be time to move to Appomattox County and start the process all over again."

Cook has worked for the Alany (Ga.) Herald, The Alexandria Gazette and The News and would like to follow in his grandfather's footsteps by eventually owning a weekly newspaper.

243 Students In Title I

During the 1973-74 school session, there were 243 students enrolled in the Title I Program. Employed to implement the program were two Title I teachers and twelve Title I instructional aides. The areas of mathematics and reading were the major concerns for Title I students in two target schools, namely, Pamplin and Appomattox Primary. The students enrolled in the program made satisfactory achievement in these areas. A large number of them demonstrated more gain than was anticipated when the project was initiated.

An Evaluation Report for the 1973-74 Title I Project has been filed with the Title I Coordinator. The report included a financial breakdown of allocated funds, listing of objectives and achievement and an account of parental involvement.

Blood Donations Appreciated!

We have been asked by David Repass of Appomattox to personally thank local people for donating 16 pints of blood at the recent bloodmobile visit that was designated to replace blood he has so desperately needed. David has given about a gallon of blood himself so he knew already the importance of the periodic visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Repass has been a patient in the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville for two months following an accident he had in a car race when he sustained severe burns. He recently has had more skin grafts and will remain in the Burn Center for some time.

The blood transfusions he has received and will receive while recovering were really appreciated. Repass has also received hundreds of cards from friends and relatives and they too are appreciated. David says it really helps knowing that friends are thinking of you.

County Officials Voice Concern

Appomattox County's Commonwealth's Attorney Sam Kerr and County Sheriff J. E. Richardson have expressed concern over the recent increase of unlicensed door-to-door salesmen operating in the county.

They explain that any salesman or peddler, except sellers of home grown farm and garden products, must have a county license and must display the license upon request of an citizen.

Salesmen must also have their name and badge conspicuously displayed on any vehicle he or she is using.

Sheriff Richardson is currently investigating a number of break-ins; which he believes may possibly be related to unlicensed vendors.

Any citizen having knowledge of any person in violation of the county law should contact the sheriff's department immediately and give a full description of the person and the vehicle involved.
